The dark-horse, underdog, long-shot, call it what you will, it's" Voodoo", from Nashville Songwriting team of Watson & Miller and it has made it onto the Major's playing field knocking on Oscar's door !

Long Beach, CA The underdog original song, “Voodoo”, by Nashville songwriters CJ Watson and Bruce Michael Miller, finds itself “Oscar” eligible in a land of giants (Adele, Katy Perry, Dolly Parton, Jon Bon Jovi, Christina Aguilera and the list goes on). The opening tune, one of 28 originals in the romantic comedy “Halloween Party”, mixes elements of Creedence and Janis Joplin with a screaming violin solo that owes more to Jimi Hendrix than Itzhak Perlman’.

As the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, improves the “Best Original Song” category with new rules and the promised five songs, this little “David” may ultimately have a chance against “Goliath”. Coming off a recent win for “Best Soundtrack” at the Laughlin International Film Festival, the “Halloween Party” team is pretty excited. “We’re hoping to be the next “ONCE”, states writer / director / producer, Linda Palmer.

Most of the songs originated in Nashville with 22 coming from Shadow Mountain Publishing, LLC alone. Of those, six were written specifically for the film with SMP’s President, Donna Britton serving as a songwriter for the theme song, and a featured performer on “Voodoo”.

Bruce Michael Miller: “It's like a Christmas Miracle.....that our little band and song is making its way into the big tent. The best part is that I'm in it with my friends and family - they really deserve the credit for tolerating my insanity all these years in pursuing a crazy dream. I am so grateful to CJ Watson, Donna Britton and Linda Palmer for making this happen and to my brilliant son Forest Miller, for adding his sparkle to it all. Win or lose I am happy for the song. Thank you guys for driving this train.”

CJ Watson: "The only thing I'm more grateful for than being in the running for an Academy Award is having so many of the people I love involved in the making of this song."

The Songwriters have offered a FREE download of “Voodoo” for your library to enjoy indefinitely. Information about Artist, Music Publisher, Producers and more available via Shadow Mountain Music on SoundCloud. <https://soundcloud.com/shadow-mountain-music/sets/oscar-contender-vooodoo-from>
